ABSTRACT

The data on staffing characteristics of schools in the United States were collected in the spring of 1970 from responses of a survey sample of approximately 1,200 local public elementary and secondary schools representative of the nation's 81,000 local public schools in systems with enrollments of 300 or more. The survey was designed to determine the numbers working in each major assignment category in the public schools in the United States; the extent to which persons specialized in only one assignment category; how many schools employed persons in specific assignment categories; how many pupils were enrolled in schools from which a particular staff assignment was absent; how many classroom aides and other aides were employed; and what factors affected the patterns of elementary and secondary school staffing. FOREWORD

The 1970 School Staffing Survey was developed by the National Center for Educational Statistics (NCES), U.S. Office of Education (USOE), for, and in cooperation with the National Center for the Improvement of Educational Systems, USOE. A 1969 pilot survey was supported by funds from the National Center for Educational Research and Development, USOE. Partial support for the 1970 survey was provided by the Office of Programs for the Handicapped, USOE.

The data in this report were collected in the 1970 survey, which was developed and conducted under the guidance of Boyd Ladd, Assistant Director for Statistical Development. The sample design, estimation procedures, data collection, and tabulations were carried out under an NCES contract by Westat, Inc., Rockville, Md. Subsequent analysis for this report was carried out under another contract by Scientific Educational Systems, Silver Spring, Md.

INTRODUCTION

In 1969 and 1970, existing statistical series provided information to meet only a limited number of data needs regarding staffing of public schools. For example, most series provided public school staffing statistics on the number of school system employees only in terms of the equivalents of full-time persons in each assignment. They did not include data on numbers of persons. Moreover, ratios of pupils to staff in terms of full-time equivalent persons (FTE's) were calculated from numbers of pupils and numbers of counselors, each aggregated separately for either school systems, States, or the United States as a whole. Included among the number of pupils represented in the numerators were pupils attending schools which did not have counselors. The resulting pupil-counselor ratios often were not appropriately descriptive of the true state of affairs in the schools. Such ratios clearly overstate the situation for schools without counselors and understate the situation for schools with counselors.

The 1970 School Staffing Survey was intended to provide concise, accurate information about school staffing in the United States. The data collected by the survey are presented in the statistical tables in this publication. The survey was designed to determine:

- How many persons worked in each major assignment category in the public schools in the United States? For example, how many persons worked as classroom teachers in public schools?
- To what extent did persons employed i[illegible]ublic schools specialize in only one assignment category? How many persons with assignments as classroom teachers also had nonteaching assignments in the same school? How many only taught?
- How many schools employed persons in specific assignment categories? How many schools employed counselors?
- How many pupils were enrolled in schools from which a particular staff assignment was absent? For example, how many pupils attended schools which did not have available the services of a counselor?
- How many classroom aides and other aides were employed? In how many schools did they work? In what kinds of schools were they found?
- How were elementary and secondary schools staffed? Did the kinds of communities in which the schools were located make a difference? For example, did elementary schools in large cities have the same quantity and variety of staff resources as their suburban counterparts? Within the large cities of the Nation, were the same staff resources going into elementary and secondary schools?

The 167 tables in this report are organized into 6 groups, the first (A) containing 2 tables, followed by 5 groups of 33 tables each (groups B through F).

The large number of tables in groups B through F reflects the degree of elaboration of the basic data in the first table (labeled "All schools") in each of these groups. The school descriptors or classifiers used in this report to elaborate the basic data in the "All schools" tables are school level (elementary, secondary), location (large cities with populations of 100,000 or more, metropolitan areas outside large cities, and all other areas), and enrollment size (less than 600, 600–999, and 1,000 or more). Each of groups B through F contain tables using the following classifiers:

School classifiers	Number of tables
All schools (basic data)	1
School level (two levels)	2
School level, by location (two levels by three locations)	6
School level, by enrollment size (two levels by three enrollment sizes)	6
School level, by location and by enrollment size (two levels, by three locations and by three enrollment sizes)	18
Total tables	33

For example, group B provides data on availability of staff simultaneously by school level and enrollment size. Shown in table B-6 are the staff data for the estimated 40,600 elementary schools in the United States enrolling fewer than 600 pupils. In the same group, table B-19 provides the same staff data simultaneously by school level, enrollment size, and location for the estimated 10,500 elementary schools located in metropolitan areas outside large cities and enrolling fewer than 600 pupils.

The six groups of tables are:

- Group A. Percent of public schools with selected assignments available on regular assignment or available on call.
- Group B. Number of public schools with selected assignments available on regular assignment or available on call.
- Group C. Number of public schools with staff available on regular assignment only, available on call only, and available both on regular assignment and on call.
- Group D. Numbers and full-time equivalents of regularly assigned public school professional staff.
- Group E. Enrollment in public schools with staff available on regular assignment and available on call.
- Group F. Schools with indicated pupil-staff ratios for selected assignments and numbers of pupils and staff in schools with these assignments.

Group A is a summary in percents of the total columns of the tables from group B on availability of staff to schools. Group A shows at a glance the staffing profiles of public schools by school level, enrollment size, and location. Group B distinguishes among the following three major modes of assignment: On regular assignment in the school, on call from the school district, or on call from an agency other than the school district. Group B provides estimates of both the number of schools and percents of total schools with staff of each assignment type available. In group B, schools with one librarian on regular assignment and a second librarian available on call from the school district office appear twice, once each in the "on regular assignment" column, and a second time in the "on call" column. In group C, in contrast to group B, these schools will be counted only once, in one column, as having librarian services available both on regular assignment and on call. Group C enables readers to see clearly the estimated number of schools with staff available only on call.

The numbers of persons in each assignment in the schools with staff available on regular assignment is estimated in group D. In addition, group D includes estimates, expressed as equivalents of full-time persons (FTE's), of the work done by the persons in each assignment. To illustrate, table 1 in group D provides the following estimates: The total number of persons with counselor assignments is 66,025. The work they do as counselors is the equivalent of 50,676 full-time counselors. Only 41,177 of these persons, however, work in one school as full-time counselors. The remaining 24,849 persons working as part-time counselors do the work of the equivalent of 9,499 full-time counselors.

Group E provides estimates of the aggregate enrollment in the schools reported in each of the cells of the tables constituting group B.

Group F, limited to information for only four assignments (classroom teachers, assistant principals, librarians, and counselors), presents data on the number of pupils per FTE staff in schools. Group F is based upon data from groups B, D, and E. Instead of a single number or statistic, it provides an estimated distribution of pupil-staff ratios for schools. For example, in addition to the overall pupil-teacher ratio for the median school, group F provides estimates of the number of schools with fewer than 10 pupils per FTE teacher, with more than 39 pupils per FTE teacher, and so on.

To illustrate further the relationships among the tables, the 66,025 counselors who worked on regular assignment (table D-1) did so in 33,244 schools (table B-1). The number of schools with counselors who worked only on regular assignment was 21,310 (table C-1). The number of pupils in the 33,244 schools with counselors available on regular assignment was 31,852,726 (table E-1) and the median pupil–counselor ratio for schools with counselors available on regular assignment was 566 pupils per counselor (table F-1).

These detailed tables are presented not only for planners and policymakers, but also for educational statisticians and researchers. For the convenience of the latter in carrying out secondary analysis, the data are given in unrounded numbers.

The data on staffing characteristics of schools were collected in the spring of 1970 from responses of a survey sample of approximately 1,200 local public elementary and secondary schools representative of the Nation's 81,000 local public schools in systems with enrollments of 300 or more. This was a subsample of the total School Staffing Survey sample of approximately 4,400 schools. Schools in systems enrolling fewer than 300 pupils were excluded from the survey; these systems contained 10 percent of all public schools but less than 2 percent of all public school pupils.

Appendix I describes the survey methodology, appendix II gives the procedures for determining sampling reliability, appendix III presents relevant questionnaire items and definitions, and appendix IV provides a list of publications relating to the School Staffing Survey.

(1) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH IN FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(2) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

NOTES.--ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 45,430,068 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO "CLASSROOM TEACHERS" ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY "TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED."

(1) 130 CITIES WITH 100,000 OR MORE POPULATION IN THE 1960 CENSUS.

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTALS E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

(1) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(2) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

NOTES.--ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 13,123,497 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO 'CLASSROOM TEACHERS' ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY 'TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED.'

(1) STANDARD METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREAS (SMSA'S) WITH 100,000 OR MORE POPULATION IN THE 1960 CENSUS, EXCLUDING CENTRAL CITIES.

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

NOTES.--ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 5,966,191 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO 'CLASSROOM TEACHERS' ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY 'TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED.'

(1) 130 CITIES WITH 100,000 OR MORE POPULATION IN THE 1960 CENSUS.

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

(1) STANDARD METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREAS (SMSA'S) WITH 100,000 OR MORE POPULATION IN THE 1960 CENSUS, EXCLUDING CENTRAL CITIES.

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

NOTES.—ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 622,948 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO 'CLASSROOM TEACHERS' ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY 'TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED.'

(1) AREAS OUTSIDE THE STANDARD METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREAS (SMSA'S) WITH 100,000 OR MORE POPULATION IN THE 1960 CENSUS.

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

- FREQUENCY ZERO IN SAMPLE.

NOTES.—ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 2,708,485 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO "CLASSROOM TEACHERS" ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY "TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED."

(2) TOTAL AND SUBTOTALS MAY NOT EQUAL DETAIL BECAUSE SCHOOLS WITH STAFF IN MORE THAN ONE MODE OF ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED IN EACH MODE OF ASSIGNMENT BUT ONLY ONCE IN THE TOTAL; E.G., SCHOOLS HAVING STAFF BOTH ON FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ARE COUNTED UNDER BOTH HEADINGS BUT ONLY ONCE UNDER TOTAL AVAILABLE ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT.

(3) ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS HAVING PRINCIPALS ON REGULAR ASSIGNMENT ONLY.

* DATA ABOUT AVAILABILITY ON CALL WERE NOT COLLECTED FOR PRINCIPALS.

NOTES.--ALL PERCENT ENTRIES ARE FREQUENCIES DIVIDED BY 2,639,460 AND MULTIPLIED BY 100.
ALL DATA IN THIS TABLE ARE ESTIMATES BASED UPON A SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS. SEE APPENDIX II FOR A STATEMENT OF THE RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES.
STUDENTS REPORTED IN THE TABLE AS HAVING NO 'CLASSROOM TEACHERS' ARE ENROLLED IN SPECIAL SCHOOLS WHICH REPORTED HAVING ONLY 'TEACHERS OF THE HANDICAPPED.'

Appendix I

SURVEY METHODOLOGY

This appendix provides technical details of the School Staffing Survey, the source of data for this publication. The survey data were collected in spring 1970 from a national sample of about 4,400 local public schools. A pilot survey was conducted in spring 1969. The data presented in this publication come from a subsample of 1,203 schools.

This appendix is composed of three major parts: Sample design, data collection, and data editing. Each of these phases of the survey was conducted under contract by Westat, Inc., Rockville, Md.

Sample Design

Stratification and Allocation of Sample. The survey design involves the administration of three questionnaires (X, Y, and Z) to an independent national sample of principals of local public schools. The sample design, therefore, called for the selection of three independent subsamples from the same population of public schools. Plans for the analysis of the survey data called for simultaneously classifying schools by three characteristics: School level, school location, and enrollment. The sample frame was stratified to assure sufficient representation of schools with these analysis characteristics and to increase sampling efficiency; i.e., reduce the sampling error because of known relationships between the classifying characteristics and items of information called for in the survey. The strata are:

1. School level: Elementary and secondary (including junior high school).

2. School location: Large cities (schools in central cities with populations of 100,000 or more in the 1960 census); metropolitan areas surrounding large cities (schools in the remainder of the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's) containing these large cities); and all other areas (areas outside the SMSA's of the 130 largest cities).

3. Enrollment size of school: 249 or less, 250–499, 500–999, 1,000–1,999, and 2,000 or more enrollment. (Note that a different set of enrollment size categories – 599 or less, 600–999, and 1,000 or more – was used for the analyses presented in the tables.)

Equal numbers of elementary and secondary schools were allocated to the sample. Because of national concern about the problems of schools in large cities, they were overrepresented in the sample allocation. Twice as many elementary schools in large cities were selected as in the other two location categories combined. It was not possible to carry out this intention at the secondary level for the Y form because of the relatively small number of large-city secondary schools in the population. Thus the same number of secondary schools in large cities was selected for response to the Y questionnaire form as was selected in the other two locations combined; i.e., the number of large-city secondary schools was reduced from the 800 schools otherwise desired for the sample to 400. The number of schools in the population for each stratum is indicated in table I-a. The initial allocation of the sample for the three questionnaire forms is given in table I-b.

Table I-a.–Schools in main sample frame, by school level and location and by enrollment size

All other areas	15,036	4,415	4,313	4,335	1,757	216

Designations of sample size in table I-b are given only by type of school and location for each of the three questionnaire form types. The allocation to five classes designating school size within each of these strata was the final item preparatory to sample selection. Specific responses to questions on the questionnaire would ordinarily be highly related to either enrollment in the various size classes or numbers of schools in these size classes. The proportion of the sample finally allocated to the size classes represented a compromise between enrollment and number of schools, with enrollment in the dominant role.

Sample Frame and Sample Selection. The sampling frame for the study was derived from the Universe of Public and Nonpublic Elementary and Secondary Day Schools, which is maintained on tape by the U.S. Office of Education. At the time of the 1970 School

Staffing Survey, the most recent tape was that for 1968–69, containing 116,181 schools. In the construction of the main sampling frame used in the School Staffing Survey, the following categories of schools were deleted from the universe:

1. Schools in geographical locations outside the 50 States and the District of Columbia; e.g., Puerto Rico.
2. Schools operated by nonpublic agencies; e.g., private academies, parochial schools.
3. Schools operated by public agencies other than local education agencies (LEA's); e.g., State-operated schools for mentally retarded pupils.
4. Schools in LEA's with total enrollment of less than 300 pupils.
5. Schools not reporting enrollment or returning incomplete questionnaires.

The 1,488 schools in category 5 above were listed in the 1967–68 tape but did not submit data for the 1968–69 tape. Many of these schools were believed to be in operation throughout 1968–69 and were pertinent to this survey. Accordingly, a separate sample of these schools was drawn (described on page 184).

After the deletion of schools in the 5 categories above, the remaining 82,751 schools were used as a sampling frame or list for the main sample of the survey. Before the actual sample selection, the schools were stratified according to school level, location, and enrollment size.

The total of 82,751 schools included approximately 2,000 duplicate school records, since schools with a grade span covering both elementary and secondary grades were recorded on the tape twice, once as an elementary school and once as a secondary school. These schools could not be directly identified on the list. However, those included in the sample were identified by their response to a questionnaire item on grade span. Adjustments to the probability of selection were then determined and applied.

It was estimated further that between 1 and 3 percent of the actual universe of schools was missing from the total sample lists of 82,000 and 116,000 schools. No attempt was made to verify further the completeness of the frames.

Schools for the sample were selected systematically within each cell or stratum given in table I-a. For each stratum, the numbers presented in table I-b were allocated over five enrollment size classes. These values were then used to determine sampling fractions for each stratum. Random sequences of selection for the three questionnaires and random starting counts were utilized for each stratum independently. The results of the systematic selection of schools for the three questionnaire forms, after deletion of Phase I repeats, are given in table I-c.

Table I-c.–Allocation of sample, by school level and location and by enrollment size

Level and location of school	Total	Enrollment size
		Under 250	250–499	500–999	1,000–1,999	2,000 and over
All schools	4,404	363	843	1,514	1,218	466
Elementary schools	2,401	229	666	1,038	447	21
Large cities	1,603	81	398	708	403	13
Metropolitan areas outside large cities	399	48	120	199	28	4
All other areas	399	100	148	131	16	4
Secondary schools	2,003	134	177	476	771	445

Metropolitan areas outside large cities	400	20	40	100	172	68
All other areas	397	64	84	123	94	32

The breakdown according to the three types of questionnaire forms (X, Y, and Z) is approximately the same as the relative numbers of forms given in table I-b. The total counts by form are given in table I-d.

Table I-d.–Allocation of sample, by questionnaire type

Questionnaire type	Number in sample
Total	4,404
X	1,203
Y	1,996
Z	1,205

The sample of schools not reporting enrollment or returning incomplete questionnaires was obtained by listing them from the universe tape. Using random starting points and sampling fractions for each of the 6 strata derived from the 2 level and 3 location categories, 99 schools were selected from this list. The questionnaire form types were then assigned at random to give approximately twice as many type Y's as either X's or Z's. After selection, those schools in districts with less than 300 pupils enrolled were removed from the sample.

Data Collection

Questionnaire Distribution. The data for this study were obtained from mail questionnaires, distributed to schools by means chosen by the coordinator appointed by each State from among the following:

1. Direct mailing to the schools, or
2. Direct mailing to the State coordinator who then sent them, with a covering letter, either directly to the schools or to the LEA superintendent, for distribution to the schools, or
3. Direct mailing to the LEA superintendent for distribution to the schools.

Assistance to Principals in Completing Questionnaires. Included in the questionnaire packet sent to principals was a toll-free number to be called if assistance was required in filling out the questionnaire. A large number of principals took advantage of the phone service.

In addition to providing telephone links, representatives were maintained in the metropolitan areas of the 30 largest cities. These representatives called on principals, informed them of their availability to assist them (by phone or by personal visit) in filling out the questionnaires and, in cases of overdue questionnaires, again contacted the principals.

Response Rates. Table I-e presents response rates for all schools. Included are schools in the main sample and those in the sample of schools with zero enrollment or incomplete questionnaires.

Editing

Manual Editing. Completed returned questionnaires were thoroughly checked, following established rules, for completeness, reasonableness, and internal consistency. Whenever possible, discrepancies were resolved by using detailed edit rules established for each form. In many instances, because of the complexity of the data, discrepancies could not be resolved or missing information provided without talking to the principal who filled out the questionnaire, or to his district superintendent. When necessary, the appropriate person was telephoned. In most cases the cooperation in this followup was excellent. A small percentage of principals could not be reached because in some regions editing extended beyond the end of the school year.

Machine Editing. After coding and keypunching (100 percent verification) certain range and logic checks were set up for each form for machine editing.

All "errors" caught by the edit program were printed out with information identifying the questionnaire. These questionnaires were then checked to determine the correct response. All data requiring correction were changed. The data base was passed through the edit program until no errors showed up.

Postclassification for Tabulation

School Level. Schools were classified as "elementary," "secondary" (including junior high), and "combined elementary-secondary" on the basis of the principal's report of his school district's classification of his school. "Middle" and "intermediate" schools were classified as elementary.

Physical Location of School. The physical location of each school responding to the survey was plotted on a map and, on the basis of this mapping, the school was classified as being located in:

1. Large cities – within the city limits of a city of 100,000 or more population as of the 1960 Census (1970 Census data not available at time of survey).

2. Metropolitan areas outside large cities – within an SMSA having at least one city of 100,000 or more population, but not within the city limits of that size city.

3. All other areas – not within an SMSA containing a city of 100,000 or more population.

The physical location of the school was the classification used in tabulation. Ninety-four percent of the sampled schools fell into the same location category on the basis of the physical location they would have been in had the classification by location of the school district office – the basis for stratification by location – been used.

Appendix II

SAMPLING RELIABILITY

Since the data in this report are derived from a sample, they are necessarily subject to sampling variability. The sampling error is a measure of sampling variability such that the chances are about 2 in 3 that an estimate from the sample would differ from the result of a survey of all schools, using the same procedures, by less than the sampling error. The sampling error does not include systematic error or bias in the data such as might affect the data in a complete survey. These notes describe the method for deriving approximate measures of sampling data presented in this report.

Sampling Error for Percent of Schools With a Given Characteristic

Table II-a shows estimates of sampling error, in percent, for estimates of the percent of schools of a given level and location having a given type of staff assignment available. The procedure applies to the tables in groups A, B, C, and the school part of group F.

> Example: It is estimated from table B-2 that 50.5 percent of elementary schools had a counselor available. From table II-a, the estimated sampling error of an estimate of 50 percent of elementary schools (the figure closest to 50.5 percent) is 3.6 percentage points.

Sampling Error for Number of Schools With a Given Characteristic

Estimates of the number of schools at a given level and location having a specified characteristic (i.e., counselors available) are subject to the same relative sampling error as the corresponding percent of schools (with that characteristic). The relative sampling errors are calculated from the data provided in table II-a on the following page. The procedure applies to the tables in groups B, C, and F.

> Example: It is estimated from table B-2 that 28,780 elementary schools had counselors available. The estimated percent of schools corresponding to this is 50.5 percent, there being a total of 56,900 elementary schools. The sampling error on the 50-percent estimate (the figure closest to 50.5 percent) derived from table II-a is 3.6 percent; the relative sampling error is 3.6 ÷ 50 or 7.2 percent. Therefore, the relative sampling error of the estimated number of schools is taken as 7.2 percent, and the sampling error as 7.2 percent of 28,800, or 2,074 (2,100, rounded to the nearest 100).

Sampling Error for Number of Staff and Pupils

This section presents procedures for determining estimates of sampling error for estimates of the number of staff or pupils. Estimates of sampling error for staff or pupil data are found by initial reference to the percent of schools with staff or pupils. The relative sampling error for the percent of schools is used for determining the sampling error and is found by referring to table II-b under the appropriate column for percent of schools and the school level and location row (interpolating when necessary for percent of schools). The procedure here applies to tables in the D and F series for number of staff, and tables in the E and F series for number of pupils. (Procedures for deriving approximations of sampling variability for estimates of staff and pupils classified by detailed school characteristics are available from the National Center for Educational Statistics, Educational Manpower Statistics Branch.)

> Example: The estimated number of counselors on regular assignment in elementary schools was 16,800 (table D-2). It is seen from table B-2 that an estimated 22 percent of all 56,900 elementary schools reported any counselors on regular assignment. Therefore, an estimate of the total number of counselors in elementary schools is subject to an approximate relative sampling error of 16.9 percent (table II-b by interpolation). The relative sampling error in this example, 16.9 percent, when applied to the estimate of 16,800 counselors in elementary schools, gives a sampling error of about 2,800 counselors on regular assignment.

RELEVANT QUESTIONNAIRE ITEMS AND DEFINITIONS

INVENTORY OF PROFESSIONAL STAFF WITH REGULAR ASSIGNMENT IN THIS SCHOOL

In this question (pp. 8-19) we would like you to report the total current inventory of professional staff with regular assignment in this school.

Do Not Include: Non-professional staff (both full-time and part-time) -- Aides, Clerks, and Secretaries, who should be recorded only on page 20, Question 10.

Staff who do not have regular assignments in this school but are available when needed (on call) from school district or other agency, who should be recorded only on page 21, Question 11.

The inventory is divided into three parts as follows:

A. PROFESSIONAL STAFF WHOSE ONLY REGULAR ASSIGNMENT IN THIS SCHOOL IS TEACHING: (Begins on page 8) e.g., teachers of mathematics, science, and all other subjects, and teachers of self-contained classes as in elementary schools. The full-time staff will be recorded first, in A-1; the part-time staff will be recorded in A-2.

B. PROFESSIONAL STAFF WHOSE ONLY REGULAR ASSIGNMENT IN THIS SCHOOL IS SOMETHING OTHER THAN TEACHING: (Begins on page 16) e.g., principal, guidance counselor, librarian, etc.

C. PROFESSIONAL STAFF WHOSE REGULAR ASSIGNMENTS IN THIS SCHOOL INCLUDE BOTH A TEACHING AND A NON-TEACHING ASSIGNMENT: (Begins on page 18) e.g., a person who teaches English part of the time and is a guidance counselor (non-teaching assignment) for the rest of his time.

Please consider only assignments during the regular school day. Do not include extracurricular activities such as coaching.

Do not include as assignments hallway duty, study hall duty, cafeteria supervision, homeroom teacher duty, etc. If a person is employed as a full-time teacher and has other duties such as those mentioned in the preceding sentence, he should be recorded as a full-time teacher.
